The hottest place in the world is the Sahara desert in Africa. But there are deserts in many other places: in America, in Africa, in Asia and in Australia. In 1917 the temperature in Death Valley, in the United States, was 49°C every day for six weeks. That's very hot!

But deserts are not always hot. After dark, deserts are very cold.

Not many animals and plants can live in a desert, because it doesn't rain very often. But one animal likes the desert – the camel. It has big feet to walk on the sand. It can live for a long time without water. Sometimes it doesn't drink anything for weeks – so it gets very thirsty! When it finds water it can drink 50 litres at a time.
